More CIA Names

Leftist publications in Paris, London and Madrid printed more names of alleged U.S. Central Intelligence Agency agents working in France, Britain and Spain.

The Paris newspaper Liberation, which published 32 names Tuesday, identified 12 more individuals, including Lewis Sevier, whom the newspaper said was a U.S. consular official. The London magazine Time Out, which named 60 alleged CIA agents last year, added three more to its list.

The weekly news magazine Cambio 16 in Madrid identified Robert Gahagen, 55, listed as an attache at the U.S. embassy, as the CIA station chief for Madrid. The other alleged CIA agents in Madrid were: William A.K. Jones, 55, Francis S. Sherry III, 48, Alen F. Morrill Jr., no age given, Jon R. Thomas, 29, Dean L. Almy, 49, Charles L. Smith, 39, Kenneth E. Stucker, 45, and Wayne M. Rogers, no age given.
